

Lydia, daughter of Reuben Jessop, died on the 5th inst. and was interred on the following Sabbath. Her disease was a lingering one which baffled the skill of our best physicians. Although young, yet she had lived a consistent life and left behind her the evidence that all was well. Her relatives have the sympathies of all the community

Source:

Publication Date: